

“Consumer Directed Care”

Research Seminar Presented by Charlene Harrington, PhD, RN, FAAN

Monday, April 18, 2005

4:00 PM—5:00 PM

COPH 3202

(Snack provided)

Dr. Harrington is a Professor of Social and Behavioral Sciences at the University of California, San Francisco. She is also the Associate Director for the UCSF Hartford Center of Geriatric Nursing Excellence. Her research focuses on nursing home and community-based services with emphasis on the relationship of long-term care policies on access, quality and cost of care. Areas of expertise include sociology of health care, economics and financing, health policy and regulation, aging and long-term and social problems.

Sponsored by:
Tailored Biobehavioral Interventions Research Center
UAMS College of Nursing
501-526-7858
www.irc.uams.edu